Here and There

Editorial By ALEX. H. WASHBURN

FOLLOWING publication of our editorial Wednesday attacking Representative John Vesey's House Bill No. 231 to pay N. P. O'Neal $566 of tax funds for damages in an automobile accident, Mr. O'Neal came to The Star office Thursday to challenge certain facts. We'll present the facts as he sees them.

Mrs. Simpson to Wed Edward Day of Divorce, Belief Marriage Expected to Take Place April 27, at Castle or Vienna

PENSION DOUBTFUL

Parliamentary Fight in England Over Annual Payment to Edward

VIENNA, Austria.—(AP)—The Duke of Windsor plans to marry Mrs. Wallis Simpson April 27 at either Ennsfeld castle or Baron Eugene Rothschild's in Vienna, a usually reliable source disclosed Friday. This is the exact date on which Mrs. Simpson's divorce decree from Ernest Aldrich Simpson supposedly becomes final.

Edward's Pension Opposed

LONDON, Eng.—(AP)—Vigorous opposition to granting a pension to former King Edward was reported Thursday night. Liberal and Labor leaders in Parliament were said to have notified Prime Minister Stanley Baldwin of their objection to the government proposal.

This unexpected difficulty was the chief subject of two cabinet meetings Wednesday, during which the government unsuccessfully sought an alternative.

The new problem came to light as a result of King George's delay in submitting a civil list, which fixes incomes of the royal family's members throughout the reign of a monarch. In view of the former king's surrender of most of his official income, the plan adopted by the government was to have his allowance included with the allotments for the king and the other members of the house of Windsor. An annual allowance of $25,000 ($125,000) was believed sought for Edward.

Liberals, however, said they would oppose the plan and Laborite leaders predicted there would be trouble. Even some Conservatives said they would not consent.

One solution, it appeared, would be to give King George a much larger allowance than had been planned, to permit him to provide his brother with a sum from the king's funds, but some cabinet members opposed such action. As King Edward received a fixed salary of $2,000,000, his brother's income, now that he has come to the throne, may be made even larger, because he has a wife and two daughters, while Edward was a bachelor.

When Edward abdicated he lost his salary and his income from the duchy of Lancaster, about $215,000 a year. He also had an income of about $350,000 annually from the duchy of Cornwall, which he was believed to have turned over to George.

Without any money coming to him from his relatives or the British government, however, the Duke of Windsor is said to still have some $5,000,000 left him by Queen Alexandra, his grandmother, the wife of King Edward VII.

Flood Descends on Arkansas Levees, But All Is Well

Crest of Mississippi Moving Southward—120,000 Guard River Banks

HELENA STAGE 58.4

Record-Breaking Crest Is 14.4 Feet Above Flood-Stage There

MEMPHIS, Tenn.—(AP)—An unyielding line of levees held the crest of the Mississippi's greatest flood to its channel Friday while the defenders of river towns and farmsteads steadily gained new courage.

With 332 deaths attributed to the flood, the refugee roll nearing the million-mark, and damage estimated in excess of $50 million dollars, U. S. Army engineers had 120,000 laborers on the levees.

Cairo, Ill., just past a memorable crisis, saw the yellow tide of the Ohio begin its slow recession, but maintained a vigilant watch on the seawall and sand-bagged levee.

Arkansas Rivers Drop

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—Arkansas' lesser rivers showed falling stages Friday but the Mississippi continued its slow rise on the state's eastern border.

At Helena the Mississippi rose four-tenths of a foot to 58.4 feet—14.4 feet above flood stage.

England Elected Red Cross Leader

D. B. Thompson Resigns—New Chairman, Other Officers, Chosen

D. B. Thompson, chairman of the Hempstead county chapter of the American Red Cross, resigned at a reorganization meeting of the group, and Wayne H. England was elected as his successor, it was announced Friday.

Mr. Thompson has served the county as chairman for several years. He said that other duties would not enable him to continue active work in the local chapter.

Resolutions of sincere appreciation for the faithful service rendered by Mr. Thompson during several years, was adopted unanimously by the chapter.

Mr. England will take over the chairmanship at once. He has an office in the First National bank building.

Other new officers of the Red Cross chapter are:

C. F. Rounton, vice chairman; J. Fitzsimmons, secretary; Syd McMath, treasurer; Mrs. Flora Cotton Slater, chairman of home service; D. B. Thompson, chairman of disaster relief; Leonard Ellis, chairman of publicity; Robert M. Wilson, chairman of World War Veterans' committee; Robert LaGrone, Jr., George M. Green and N. T. Jewell, board of directors.

9-Year-Old Bride and Husband Are Visited by Turner

Marriage at 13 Not Unusual in Mountains, Newspaperman Finds

BRIDE AND A DOLL

Husband Charlie Deeply Religious According to Hill Country Code

By BROWN TURNER of Knoxville Journal Staff

SNEEDVILLE, Tenn.—Hell's a poppin' in the mountains and hollows hereabouts.

This squall town in Hancock county where there is neither telephone or telegraph line and no paved highways is sort of disturbed by the influx of "come heres" (visitors) since the marriage of lanky 22-year-old Charlie Johns to 9-year-old Eunice Winstead.

They don't see why the whole country could be disturbed over such a trivial matter. It is a little unusual, they agree, for a girl 9 years of age to take on the responsibilities of a wife, but think nothing of 12-year-old girls becoming brides. The latter are common in these parts, and there are many grandmothers in their early thirties.

Charlie and Eunice live in a cabin in the hollow a few miles from here. Eunice says she loves Charlie and Charlie says he is determined that this marriage will be a success.

A Bride and a Doll

A peep into the cabin at 9 o'clock last night revealed overall-clad Charlie with his young bride, doll in her arms, in his lap, rocking her to sleep. An oil lamp flickered when the door was opened; a cheery fire was crackling in the fireplace. Eunice opened her eyes, frightened at the stranger who wore Sunday clothes, and her chubby little arms clung to Charlie's neck.

"Don't get skeered," Charlie cautioned his bride. "I ain't aiming for no body to take you away from me. Ifn they do, it'll be over by dead body."

And Charlie meant it, too. His eyes flashed as he glanced into the corner where a long-barreled shotgun leaned menacingly against the wall.

"A man and a girl is got a right to git mar'd, ain't they?" he said. "His noddody's business and we was mar'd by a preacher of the church and Eunice's ma 'n pa ain't b'jeet'n." he continued. "Now go on from here an' let us be."

Charlie is deeply religious according to the code of the hill country. He and all his neighbors are Baptists. They are so jealous of their faith that one time when a Methodist preacher drifted into the community and made

5 & 10-Cent Store History Recalled

Lyman Armstrong, Scott Manager, Tells Rise of Woolworth, Others

The five-n-ten or racket store is an example of how little things lead to some very big ones, Lyman Armstrong manager of Scott's, told Hope Rotary club Friday noon.

Although the average racket store will stock 5,000 different items selling for less than 50 cents, the "five-n-ten" has developed into one of the giants of the merchandising business—and in Chicago there is one store manager whose annual pay is greater than the president of the United States, Mr. Armstrong said.

The manager of Woolworth's State street store in Chicago the speaker said, gets a salary of $25,000, and a bonus sometimes as large as $85,000 a year. And that manager is so important that once, when the company laid him off, business declined to such an extent that he was promptly returned to his old job.

Negro Dies From Officers' Bullet

Leo Jackson, 26, Succumbs Following Altercation at Hope City Jail

Leo Jackson, 26, former negro convict, died in Julia Chester hospital at 10:30 a. m. Friday after a bullet wound inflicted by police guns following an altercation at the city jail late Monday afternoon.

The negro underwent an emergency operation Wednesday morning, but grew worse.

Accused in a series of petty crimes, the negro refused to make a statement when questioned by officers before his death.

He was arrested Monday afternoon by Policemen Turner and Bearden. Taken to the city jail, the negro resisted being searched and wheeled to run as one of the officers unlocked the jail door.

Both officers pulled their guns and shot, one bullet taking effect over the right hip. The bullet lodged in the stomach. Both Turner and Bearden used .44 calibre pistols.

The Jackson negro was only recently released from the state penitentiary where he served a sentence from Nevada county for the robbery of the Cook mercantile store at Sutton. Funeral services were incomplete at noon Friday.

Louise Knobel Is Overcome by Gas

Found Unconscious in Bathroom From Effects of Stove Fumes

Miss Louise Knobel, who has an apartment in the home of County Judge and Mrs. Frank Rider, 1108 South Main street, was found unconscious in her bath tub at 4:30 p. m. Thursday, overcome by gas from an over-heated water tank.

A physician was called and she was revived a few minutes later. She was confined to her bed Friday, but was reported to be recovering from the effect of the gas fumes.

Miss Knobel entered the bathroom about 3 p. m. After a lapse of an hour and a half, Mrs. Rider became alarmed and asked her husband to investigate.

The door was locked and there was no sound from inside. Mr. Rider broke open the door and found her slumped in the bath tub.

Apparently she had finished bathing and was attempting to step out of the tub when she was overcome by fumes. There was no stove in the bathroom, and it is believed she turned the gas to a high flame to obtain heat.

Authority Asked by F. D. to Raise 9 Justices to 15

President's Thrust at Supreme Court Is Surprise to Congress

JUDICIAL REFORM

Reorganization Measure Would Affect Entire Federal Judiciary

WASHINGTON.—(AP)—President Roosevelt in a surprise message to congress Friday recommended a sweeping reorganization of the federal court machinery, including an increase in the judgeships of the supreme and lower courts and a method for speeding high court decisions on constitutional questions.

In a tentative draft of the bill accompanying his message the president would be given power to increase the supreme court by a maximum of six justices, to a total of 15, and the lower courts by two members each unless judges over the age of 70 are retired.

"These proposals do not raise any issue of constitutional law," the president said.

Bill Striking at Nuisances, Passes

Committee Reports Oppose Racing Repeal, But Favor Sales Tax

LITTLE ROCK.—(AP)—The house passed 76 to 0 Friday a bill by Wright of Clark, and Coleman of Greene, to empower judges and circuit courts to block dance halls declared to be nuisances.

Abolition of White noon adoption 75 to 0 of his bill to provide payment of pensions to the aged, blind, widows, orphans and others unable to pursue gainful occupations.

The proposed law would be administered by the State Social Welfare Department. Abington explained that the bill was to carry out social welfare plans in co-operation with the federal government.

The senate reversed itself and passed the bill to regulate the practice of dentistry.

Oppose Race Repealer

LITTLE ROCK.—"Do not pass" will be the recommendation of the House Banks and Banking Committee to the House on a bill by Butt of Carroll which would repeal an act of the 1935 legislature legalizing betting on horse races. The bill was considered in an open hearing Thursday night. Committee members said a minority report would be filed. The vote, in executive session, was 7 to 3.

Dr. A. C. Miller, editor of the Arkansas Methodist and Representative Butt spoke for passage. Campbell and Maner, Garland county representatives, spoke against passage.

Dr. Miller said that he was a "friend of Hot Springs." He declared that the hot springs were an asset to the whole country and had the capacity to bring far more people to Arkansas than ever came for any one thing.

"Unfortunately," he said, "a great part of Hot Springs progress has been built on sports, some of which are known as vices. These sports have injured the state more than all the good publicity the state has received through newspapers and organizations because of the springs.

Gambling Element

"I like horse races," he said. "I wish it were possible for us to have good, clean horse races. But I do not like to see the horses run as an instrument of the better."

"I know that we cannot stop gambling. People will bet. I imagine that people have bet on the length of time that I would preach. But we have no right to legalize that which is repulsive to a large portion of our people."

"The excuse we have for horse races is that we must have the revenue. The costs of vice, however, are far more than the revenue derived. We need the revenue, you say. But now that we have the sales tax there is no need for the revenue from race horse betting. We will gain more from the increased sales tax revenue than we will lose by abolishing race gambling."

Dr. Miller praised the legislature during his speech and said that he did not know of an Arkansas legislature that "has done so much in so short a while."

Representatives Campbell and Maner spoke briefly against passage. Campbell declared that the bill would hurt merchants in Hot Springs and

Quarantine, Isolation Help Prevent Spread of Disease

By DR. MORRIS FISHBEN
 Editor, Journal of the American Medical Association, and of Hygiene, the Health Magazine.

In the Middle Ages, people who arrived on ships from other ports were prevented from entering Italian cities until a period of 40 days had passed, whenever there was a case of plague or infection aboard the ship.

The word "quarantine" comes from an Italian word meaning 40.

It has come to mean the detention of well people, who have been exposed to infection, long enough to make certain that they are not infected.

The term "isolation" is used in connection with sick persons or disease carriers who are kept alone or isolated until well and free from germs.

Besides isolating the person himself, however, it may be necessary frequently to practice what is called sanitary isolation, involving control of insects or other factors involved in spreading disease.

For each of the infectious diseases there is a period of quarantine, definitely related to the so-called incubation period of the disease. Every state has special rules covering various infectious diseases. In infantile paralysis, for example, the period of isolation lasts at least two weeks. Children who have been in contact with the patient also are kept away from other children for two weeks.

Measles also demands two weeks' isolation; scarlet fever four weeks, and whooping cough three weeks. For chickenpox, diphtheria, German measles, and mumps, the minimum time of isolation is one week from the time the rash, or first symptoms, appear. This point, however, will also be elaborated in later discussion of each infectious disease.

During the period of isolation and quarantine, certain procedures are necessary to make certain the disease will not be spread.

In yellow fever, a mosquito screen must be placed around the patient so that mosquitoes that may happen to bite the patient may not transfer the disease to other people.

For diphtheria or scarlet fever, the patient frequently is isolated in his own room, and other members of the family may come and go freely.

In hospitals, these patients may be isolated in individual rooms for some time even in cubicles. For smallpox, most communities have special places.

Typhoid fever carriers need not be imprisoned, provided they know how to take care of their excretions. On the other hand, they are careless or ignorant, they may be public menaces and it may be necessary to lock them up.

For leprosy, it is customary to establish a leprosarium, such as the one in Carville, La., where lepers of this country may be assembled and kept under control.

For each disease there is a special method of isolation. The measures applied during quarantine and isolation are definitely related to knowledge of the ways in which the diseases are spread.

ing to build up a romance between George Brent and Anita Louise. But it's slightly lopsided. Anita seems to have a crush on George, while Garbo remains the object of his affections.

Those Abbe kids—Patience, Richard and John—called on Charlie Chaplin for an interview for their next book. Patience suggested, "If you'll be funny, we will give you an autographed copy of our first book." So Chaplin is funny, and the Abbes promised they'd write something nice about him.

Henry Fonda is in a bad way. There's a growth on his knee joint which causes him to limp at times and which may require a serious and expensive operation.

Roscoe Karns claims a unique distinction. Says he is the only actor of his age, or older, who never has made a dime outside the show business. Started out in stock, as a kid, and then crashed Hollywood.

Roles Slay Him

Another odd record is claimed by Norman Willis, the screen heavy. He has appeared in 16 pictures and in 10 of them he was murdered.

Woman's Adventures in African Jungle

"Restless Jungle" (McBride: $3), is another book on Africa by another woman. It is exactly what the title implies: a story of koodoo, impalas, wildebeests, baboons, lions, and natives of Swaziland and Zululand.

Its author, Mrs. Mary Jobe Akley, wife of the late Carl Akley, naturalist and explorer, was sent through the jungle for the American Museum of Natural History.

The book is illustrated generously with beautiful photographs taken by Mrs. Akley.

She writes in a clear, straightforward manner of her own exciting adventures and of the amazing experiences of the jungle rangers. There is a vivid description of the attack of a black mamba, a deadly snake that travels as fast as a horse can gallop, which "stood on its tail," rising four feet from the ground. And there is a thrilling account of a hunter, who was thrown from his horse when a lion attacked him and who fell right in the path of another lion. Dragged under the belly of the great beast, he managed to reach his knife and stabbed the lion with a most remarkable back-handed blow.

Mrs. Akley visited the queen of Swaziland and made such a hit with Swazi royalty that she became a frequent visitor at the Royal Kraal and so is able to relate in detail the customs of those strange people—which are extremely odd and interesting.

Even though they are superstitious and filled with awe of the Unknown, Mrs. Akley says the jungle people have the admirable qualities of generosity, love for their fellowmen, and kindness. And she should know.

CONFIDENTIAL REPORT

CRIME FILE ON BOLITHO BLANE

BEGIN HERE TODAY

BOLITHO BLANE, British financier, disappears from office, owned by his principal competitor, BISHOP OF BUDE, ROCKSAVAGE, off Miami.

Blane's cabin, addressed to his secretary, NICHOLAS STODART, indicates suicide since he faced bankruptcy. A memo written by Stodart shows Blane's company stock, ARKUS SUB, closing at a new low that day.

Other passengers aboard yacht GOLDEN GATE are MISS PHILIP ROCKSAVAGE, Rock's daughter, LADY WELTER, HAYASHI, JOCELYN, and MR. POSODINI and INOSUKE HAYASHI.

Detective Officer KETTERING, hearing the yacht at Miami, finds accurate marks on Blane's cabin and blood on the curtain. Upon examination, Rock's daughter, Lady Welter, reports effect an amalgamation of their companies. It is also revealed that Lady Welter is heavily interested in Rock's stocks. Next, Kettering, under questioning, learns Blane's cabin was used to sell a huge soap monopoly of other to Blane or to Rock'savage for pleasure.

NOW GO ON WITH THE STORY

FROM the foregoing statements it is obvious that, as we have a note in Blane's own hand, scribbled on the back of the leaf torn from Stodart's pocketbook with the share quotations on it, which was sent down to him at 7:45, he must still have been alive at that time.

The steward, Ringbottom, entered his cabin at 8:30 and discovered him to be missing. Therefore, Bolitho Blane must have been murdered between 7:45 and 8:30. The situation of the cabin steward's pantry and Ringbottom's statement, backed by that of the carpenter, Jenks, rules out the possibility of the crime having been committed by any member of the crew.

After I had questioned Count Posodini, Detective Officer Neame told me that he felt certain that this man's face was familiar to him, and that he had him on our criminal records. Every effort should, therefore, be made to obtain full particulars regarding him at once.

Having taken statements from all the guests and the only members of the crew who might possibly have been concerned in the affair I proceeded to analyze their statements.

"Thumbs Up" on Thumb Sucking

When Mrs. Jones and Mrs. Miller have an argument about the pros and cons of thumbs in babies' mouths, or the evils or benefits of a "pacifier," it's right down to our level and we talk sides with Mrs. J. or Mrs. M. and pull for all we're worth.

But when learned gentlemen with all sorts of X, Y, Z's after their names go to bat over the question, then it leaves us helpless. And this is just about the way the land lies now. They get right up in meeting and dare each other to prove their points. To wit, whether a little pink thumb, or a sugar teat, as the mammals used to call them, or even a fooler or soft rubber upon occasion, will push out the teeth, pull in jaws, cause throat trouble and adenoids and even affect hearing.

Ripe for Serving

If they cannot decide it among themselves, and tell the rest of us where to get off in these matters, what are we to do?

Now I wouldn't put up a sweet little clean pink thumb against a rubber gadget that lies about on the floor now and then for the dog to lick.

If there is anything in the world that makes a baby look like a nitwit and a specimen of something or other, it is a nozzie stuck into his mouth to keep him quiet. And a ring of celluloid and a tassel, and a ring of celluloid and a tassel, and a ring of celluloid to be served up a la piglet on a charger.

But when it comes to a thumb, bad as it is, and I know it is, for all the soft little tissues of throat and nose, I find myself saying, "Well, it's just a baby cure in six small doses."

for you. They've always done it and always will.

And I've know pretty chronic suckers to come out of it during the second year, with teeth as straight as tenpins, and ne'er a sign of any other trouble. While there was Brother Alf who wore everything from metal mitts to bitter gloves to keep his thumb out of his mouth, and Brother Alf's teeth with some day in to be "help him chew properly. This business of thumb sucking is certainly the most unpredictable thing in the world. And the most content. You can't tell whether it will or whether it won't lead to trouble.

Individual Problem

It is best to discourage thumb sucking. But I add, "if possible." There are some babies who would stay awake forever if they didn't get that comical bit of nonsense called a thumb into the buttonhole of his mouth. Other youngsters give it up quite easily, without the benefit of "stalls" and all the other unpleasant preventives.

After the second year most babies give it up automatically. But if they don't, then I'd call on ingenuity and try to get after it.

There is no royal or easy road at any time. It seems to be each mother's individual problem. Certainly if the moguls on teeth and jaw development cannot arrive at an amicable conclusion, I would be foolish to wave a nostrum and shout, "Here you are, ladies. No-Thumbo-O, for his babies. Sure cure in six small doses."

So many hearts are brave. Each day I see
The lifted banners of their courage shine
Out of the myriad eyes that look in mine:
The banners mankind carry as they march
To prove that they are undefeated still,
Though tired feet must often drag behind;
Though there be scarcely strength to climb the hill.
Brave women and brave men, who go there way
Without the blare of music down the street;
Without the cheers, or the encouragement
Of words that would be heartening and sweet.
So many have the courage to go on
Undaunted by their loss, or pain, or fear;
Beaten perhaps, yet holding in their souls
The beautiful bright quality of cheer.
So many hearts are brave—though well they know
How rough the road is that their feet must go.—Selected (by request)

Big Health Sale in Cold Weather

Quaker Oats Featured in Displays at Local Grocery Stores

Hope grocers, greeting the arrival of cold weather, are this week sponsoring a city-wide Health Sale, featuring well known protective-vitamin foods, and valuable information on how to "keep meals on the vital side" during winter months.

Along with a Vitamin Chart on which are listed the various vitamins, the roles they play in good health, and the foods which are recognized as being the best sources of each vitamin, grocers are also displaying a giant reproduction of the famous Dionne Quins, said to be the most life-like ever made of these famous youngsters. The purpose of this display is to call attention to the fact that Quaker Oats was the cereal selected for the Dionne Quins by their renowned physician and guardian, Dr. Allan Roy Dafeo. Quaker Oats, which contains a rich supply of Vitamin B for combating nervousness, sluggish digestion and poor appetite, due to lack of sufficient Vitamin B in the diet, is one of the most important of the vitamin foods that the grocers are featuring in their big health sale.

The health sale will be in effect all this week at practically all grocery stores.

Evening service at 7:30. A special invitation is extended to all who do not attend church elsewhere on Sunday night to hear the pastor's message on "God's Voice and Great Disasters."

Are great disasters sent as punishment for sin? How does it come about that in sudden disasters people perish along with the ungodly? Is there a message for us in tragedies which happen to our friends? The Sunday night sermon may be helpful in enabling us to correctly answer these perplexing questions.

Will you not tell others about this Sunday night service? This timely message may help you to interest someone who is not in the habit of attending church. Let us fill the auditorium.

Why are people so unsettled in religion? There is a reason for it. The common people are being led astray. Honest? Yes! But honestly mistaken. The diversion is wrong. Why not be as Christ prayed that we be, "All be one." It depends upon the leaders in religion. We are ready to unite with the whole world on the Bible alone. Come ye, and let us reason together.

Jesus the Light of the World
Text: John 8:12, 31:32; 9:1-11

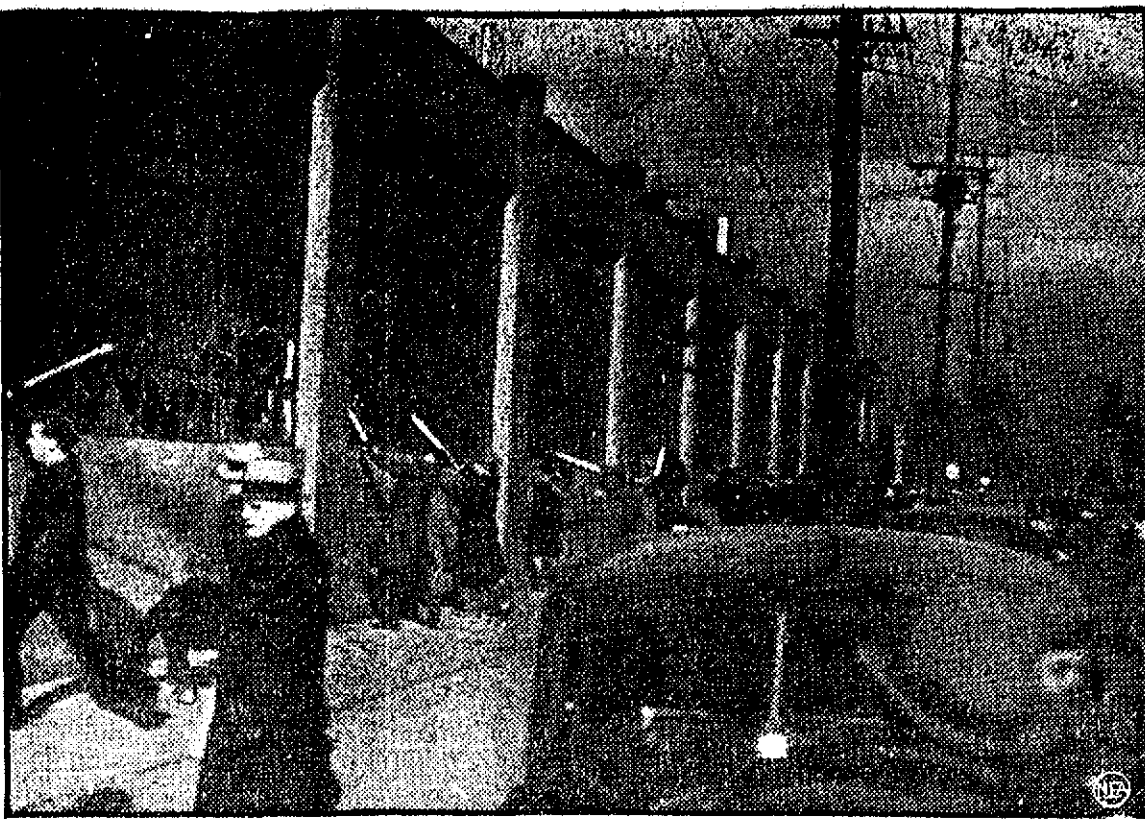

We have seen Jesus typified as the bread of life and the living water, of which, if a man drink, he shall never thirst again. Here in our lesson we have Jesus symbolized as the light of the world, so all-illuminating that he who finds and follows the Christ shall not walk in darkness, but shall have the light of life.

The representation of Jesus as the Light Giver has its physical counterpart in the story of the restoration of sight to the man who was born blind. It is a moving story, in which great benefit from the healing waters.

Start of Flint Riot Quelled by National Guard

At least 15 persons were injured, one seriously, as new violence flared at Flint, Mich., in the battle between General Motors and United Automobile Workers of America over union recognition. As this picture was taken, rioting started inside Chevrolet plant No. 9, spread to the outside and workers and sympathizers swung into action as shown here, smashing windows with clubs. One woman, member of the "E.B." Emergency Brigade, may be seen bashing in a window near center. Flint police were re-enforced by National Guardsmen who took over all activities in the strike-torn area.

CLUB NOTES

Food Preservation

Food Preservation Leaders of the Home Demonstration clubs met in a training meeting on Thursday, February 4th. Miss Melva Bullington, county home demonstration agent conducted the school in the absence of Mrs. Ruby Mendenhall Smith, extension economist in food preservation.

Miss Bullington stated that the leaders in food preservation were the specialist in their community. The leaders were given instructions in canning meat, the making of marmalades, conserves, jams, butters, and pastes, instructions in canning of fruits and vegetables and other foods.

Special emphasis was put on the canning budget for one person which can be multiplied by the number in the family to get the family budget.

Miss Bullington stated that fresh vegetables such as turnip greens, mustard, spinach, and kale, should be served three times a week to supplement the canned products. If such fresh vegetables are not available during the winter, add fifteen quarts of canned leafy vegetables per person to the canned supply. For each person in a family over six years of age there should be canned 65 quarts of a variety of fruits, 57 quarts of vegetables, and 15 quarts of meats. Also to dry one pound of fresh vegetables and 5 pounds of fruits for each person. The goal for the county is to have 25 women who have small children, to can sufficient amounts of vegetable liquors and purees required to meet the nutritive needs of the baby. Since the growing child needs additional mineral and vitamins to supplement those present in milk, it is economy to can a well chosen variety of foods that contain these elements at a time when there is a surplus of fresh vegetables growing in the home garden.

The canning budget for the baby eliminates the necessity of preparing strained vegetables daily, insures regularity in feeding a proper diet, and means a saving of time and labor.

Baby's canning budget for the first year:

50 half pints tomato juice.
20 half pints carrots (half pulp and half liquor).
10 half pints spinach (half pulp and half liquor).

5 half pints English peas (half pulp and half liquor).
5 half pints asparagus (half pulp and half liquor).

For the second year:
60 half pints tomato juice and puree.
40 half pints carrots (strained pulp).
30 half pints spinach (strained pulp).
10 half pints asparagus (strained pulp).

Food preservation leaders will be in charge of the individual canning contest which will be held in club communities in September and at the County Achievement day in October. The goal for the county is 200 entries. The second contest will be a pantry store exhibit consisting of food for a family of five which is a club project. Food preservation reports are due in the Home Demonstration Agents office on Saturday, October 30.

Clubs representatives attending the meeting throughout the day were Hopewell, Allen, Ozan-St. Paul, Melrose and Rocky Mound.

Castoffs 'Tops' at Santa Anita Track

Special Agent and Indian Broom Favorites in $100,000 Entry

By HARRY GRAYSON
NEA Sports Writer

Judging by the way Special Agent is burning up California tracks this winter, Maj. Austin C. Taylor may hold one of the strongest hands for victory in the $100,000 added Santa Anita Handicap of February 27.

What adds bite to the wine is the fact that the British Columbian's strength lies in a pair of horses purchased at bargain rates as good thoroughbreds go. The other one is Indian Broom.

Bent on building himself a racing and breeding stable, Taylor went about it in the wrong way, according to the pundits, when he bought Indian Broom and Special Agent at bargain prices from Mrs. Isabel Dodge Sloane's affluent Brookmeade Stable. Indian Broom cost $4,000, Special Agent $5,000.

Bob Smith had highly tried both animals, and they had been found wanting, according to Mrs. Sloane's veteran trainer. The old prize fight manager seemed to know a good piece of horse flesh when he saw one. He picked up Cavalade and High Quest as yearlings at reasonable rates. So when Smith told Mrs. Sloane to dispose of Indian Broom and Special Agent, the automobile heiress did so with alacrity.

But Taylor and his trainer, Darrel Cannon, saw things differently. The lumberman already had acquired a castoff Whiskey stallion, Blondin, for his select band of broodmares. In Special Agent he saw an opportunity to obtain the blood of fashion's reigning king, Sir Galahad III. Cannon saw possibilities for the runner as a racing proposition.

Indian Broom Sweeps Clean Under New Trainer

Taylor and Cannon were attracted to Indian Broom as well. This was more or less remarkable, Indian Broom was a backward youngster, by no means handsome, and with only a flick for distance. He is a rather scraggly appearing son of a rather shifty thoroughbred, Brooms, a representative of a declining line of American bloodstock.

Under Cannon, Indian Broom became transformed. He took the Peninsula Handicap at Tanforan in easy fashion, and then proceeded to knock off the world record for a mile and a sixteenth. The old mark had been held jointly by two fillies named Discovery and Brevity. The lightly weighted Indian Broom dropped the time to 1:47 2/5, and ran away from the heavily burdened Top Row in doing so.

Indian Broom finished third to Bold Venture and Brevity in the Kentucky Derby after a rather poor ride. The trip from the Pacific coast hadn't given him much chance to freshen up, and the rough going in the race didn't do him any good. One of the features of the 1936 Derby was the phenomenal late betting on Indian Broom. California backed the colt that ran so fast on the golden slope. Taylor was reported to have chuckled in a chuck. Normally, the California racing wire man, wagered heavily on Brooms' boy.

Special Agent Likes to Run on Top of the Pack

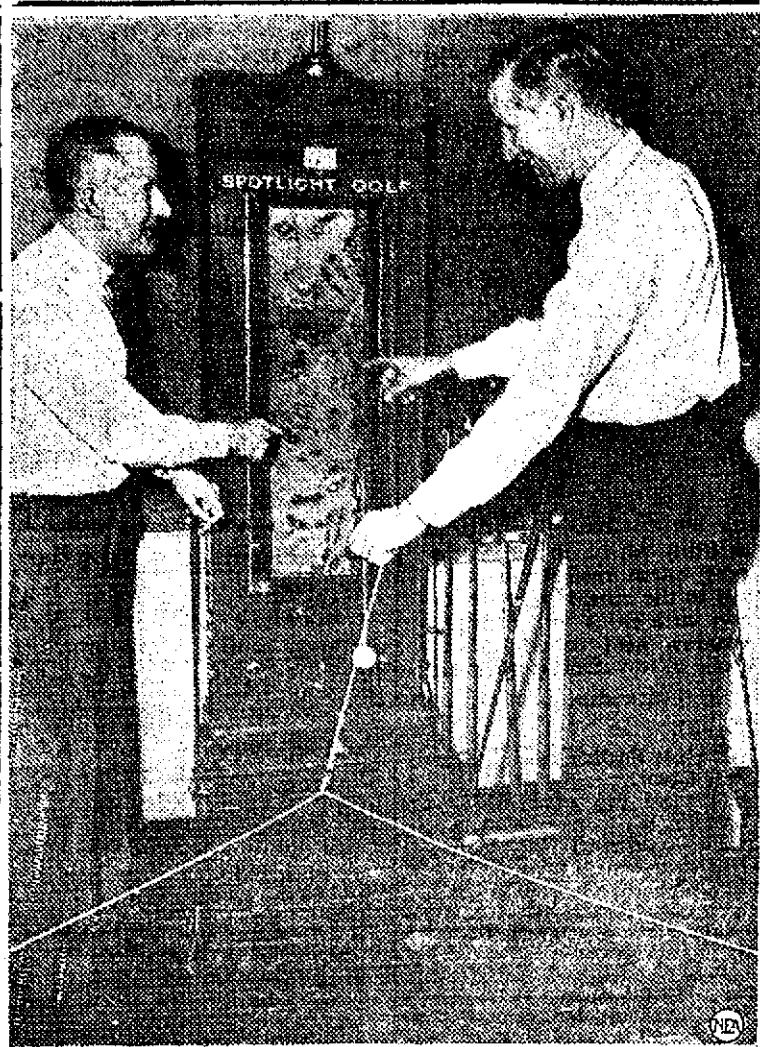

Indian Broom was only a partial success in Seattle, but his fame had preceded him, and he was in the hands of the handicappers. He fared no better under their supervision than most of us do with the tax collector.

Nevertheless, Indian Broom has rounded into great shape again, and his connections make no bones about their intention of winning the Santa Anita 'Cap with him. And now, his stablemate, Special Agent, the other half of the Brookmeade dumping program, looms as a candidate.

Special Agent bagged three stakes in a row at Tanforan and Bay Meadows, and has copped twice in fore starts at Santa Anita. In the San Pasqui, his last effort, his 1:42 4/5 not only equalled Jabot's track record, but came within four-fifths of a second of Top Row's world record for a mile and a sixteenth. He was unplaced in the Christmas Mile and San Felipe, which were run over a muddy track.

Special Agent has a blaze of early speed and likes to run on top of the pack. With Indian Broom in back of him, the A. C. T. Stock Farm feels

Spotlight Golf Real Test

Spotlight golf, an English invention for reproducing nearly every feature of the outdoor game indoors, was introduced in New York by a match in which Long Jim Barnes, right, 1921 National Open and 1925 British Open champion, defeated Jerome Travers, left, four times American amateur champion and 1915 Open titleholder, 3 and 1. The game is played with a ball tied to a string connected with a recording machine. Sensitive electrical mechanism registers distance and direction, faithfully reproducing on a little map inside of a cabinet the effect of the shot.

Rube Marquard, Famed Baseball Player, Quarter Century Ago, Is Now "Broke"

Once Famous Southpaw Under Late John McGraw Has Lost $110,000—Says That Baseball of Today Needs More "Cussing"

MIAMI, Fla.—(P)—Rube Marquard, one of baseball's highest-priced players a quarter of a century ago, greets old fans today from the mutuels window at Hialeah park racetrack here. The fortune he made as a pitcher was wiped out by the collapse of the Florida real estate boom.

Thirty years ago Marquard's sale from the minors of the New York Giants at $11,000 set a new price mark. "I lost everything I made in baseball, about $110,000, in the boom," Marquard says. "Now I'm broke but happy. I've got my health and that's all I want."

The famous southpaw still is interested in the game and hopes to manage a team, but he thinks present-day baseball is too commercial and lacks fighting spirit.

"Years ago we loved to play ball and to win," sigh Marquard. "You never heard of holdouts for more dough, or pitchers complaining of being overworked if they had to hurl more than two times a week."

To Majors At 17

"The game, it showed up. They haven't the hitters they had years ago, and the pitchers have changed. Nowadays a fellow doesn't want to pitch if he has a little headache or his nails aren't manicured just right."

"The whole game needs more fight, more hustle and bustle and more cussing. Get some of the oldtimers back and develop these youngsters."

Marquard, christened Richard William, dubbed "Rube" for the balance of his days by fans after he outgrew the title of "Slats," entered professional baseball at the age of 17.

The late John McGraw, manager of the New York Giants, bought Rube for $11,000 in 1907, when he was 17, after the youngster won 27 games and lost 6 for Indianapolis in the American Association.

"You don't look like the man I bought," McGraw told him when he failed in his first game for the Giants. "I was pitching against Cincinnati that day," Marquard recalls. "About 45,000 fans were out to see what an $11,000 pitcher looked like and my heart was pounding."

Under McGraw Nine Years

"Well, I hit the first batter and walked the next two and decided to loosen up. The fourth batter sent my first pitch sailing over the elevated tracks and I went back to the dugout."

"Oh, it was pitiful. I couldn't even ride a street car without hearing folks say in a jeer, 'There goes the $11,000 wonder.' Two days later, however, I beat Philadelphia 2-1, struck out 12 men and gave only 3 hits."

Marquard pitched nine years under McGraw and later saw service with Brooklyn, Cincinnati and Boston, playing in nine World Series. Afterwards, he managed several teams, including Providence and Jacksonville.

The former star meets hundreds of old fans as he goes from one track to another as seasons change. He's still easy to recognize—6 feet 3 1/2 inches tall. Occasionally he plays on a team the turf men get up, and he likes to watch kids on a sandlot. Watch him a while and you'll likely hear him tell a bunch of little fellows:

"It isn't speed you need; it's control. Pitch to the batter's weakness. That, in Marquard's opinion, is the secret of baseball."

Irl Tubbs to Be Iowa Grid Coach

Miami University Mentor to Succeed Ossie Solem, Resigned

IOWA CITY, Ia.—(P)—Irl Tubbs, genial little Miami (Fla.) University coach, was named head football coach Thursday night at the University of Iowa.

The board in control of athletics announced its selection of the 49-year-old Floridian after a long session following personal interviews with Tubbs and Arthur (Dutch) Bergman of Catholic University.

Tubbs, who revived Miami University football fortunes during his two years at the southern university, will succeed Ossie Solem who resigned to accept a similar position at Syracuse University.

The new coach and Bergman were two of the three men selected by the athletic board's sifting committee to appear for personal interviews. The third coach was Matty Bell of Southern Methodist who declined the invitation and accepted a new five-year contract proffered by Mustang officials.

Two Games to Be Played at 10 a. m. Saturday at Oglesby School

Four women basketball teams in Hope have been organized by Mrs. Claude Doyle, county WPA recreational supervisor for women.

The four teams will represent Oglesby, Brookwood and Paisley schools and the American Legion Auxiliary. The teams are composed of faculty members of the schools and members of the P. T. A.

Two games will be played at 10 a. m. Saturday at Oglesby school. Brookwood will meet Paisley in the first game at 10 o'clock, followed by a contest between Oglesby and American Legion Auxiliary.

Ace Parker Signed to Pro Baseball Contract

DURHAM, N. C.—(P)—Clarence (Ace) Parker, Duke University's all-American halfback, has signed a contract with the Philadelphia Athletics an dwill report at the training camp at Mexico City February 18, Duke officials announced Thursday.

Parker, an outfielder, will report to President-Manager Connie Mack of the A's along with the pitchers and catchers.

9-Year-Old Bride

arrangements to hold a revival, the church was torn down. The Methodist preacher left the community.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Winstead, mother and father of Eunice, also are religious to the point of fanaticism. When seen at their cabin this morning they said they saw no reason for having the marriage annulled. "For don't the Good Book say that 'that which God hath joined together let no man put asunder?' Them two young uns have been courtin' for two or three years and I reckon they know their minds."

Mrs. Winstead said, "We believe in the Bible and know everything is all right. Why, our souls would burn in torment if we broke up this couple."

Boy Is Good Worker

Lewis Winstead shifted his tobacco to the other side of his mouth, spat into the live coals in the fireplace and said he was satisfied with his son-in-law, that he was a good boy and a hard worker. He made considerable from his tobacco crop this year, Lewis said, and was well qualified to take care of a wife.

Course, Eunice is a little young. Maybe they should've waited a year or so, but they both got strong minds and I wouldn't of interfered anyhow," he said. "Why my wife was only 13 when we married, and it didn't cause no city folks to come out here and meddle."

So everybody seems satisfied in the family. The laws of Tennessee permit such marriages and there's nothing to be done about it. The legislature, now in session, is considering two bills fixing an age limit, but laws are not retroactive.

Tomorrow Eunice will go about his farm work. Eunice will sit in the cabin and play with her dolls and look at the two rings she wears on her baby fingers.

Newspaper men from New York, Washington and other points stamp about the place after pictures and interviews.

In front of the Winstead home is a scrubby tree. This is headquarters for the newsmen. They have a little fire burning and come there to warm their feet, eat sandwiches, crackers and other things brought up from the store about five miles over the mountain.

The road to the Winstead and Johns home is barely more than a trail. It winds over the mountains through some of the prettiest scenery in America. One boggle by the driver of an automobile at several points and the car would plunge a thousand or more feet down a sheer cliff.

A mountaineer remarked to a New York newspaper man that the trip in a car was dangerous. The newspaperman retorted with the old gag: "Mister, newspaper men have to go places where even the angels fear to tread."

And if Charlie gets worked up about all this, and if anybody tries to undo this marriage, there'll be more hell a-poppin' in the hollow.

Braddock to Meet Louis in Chicago

Joe Gould, Manager, to Sign Papers for Match in June

CHICAGO—(P)—World Heavyweight Champion James J. Braddock and his manager Joe Gould, will sign articles with the Sporting Club of Illinois Monday afternoon for a championship battle with Joe Louis in June, Joseph Trainer, chairman of the Illinois Athletic Commission, announced Thursday.

Trainer said he had been notified by the champion and his manager that they would come to Chicago to sign Monday at a special meeting of the Illinois commission.

Trainer also said that through the insistence of Julian Black, co-manager of Louis, Mike Jacobs, who holds title to the negro's boxing activities until 1940, has been declared co-promoter with the Illinois Sporting Club, headed by Sheldon Clark, wealthy oil man.

Although tentatively scheduled for Soldier field the promoters took under consideration a bid from J. Louis Comisky, owner of the Chicago White Sox to hold the fight in his park.

Joe Cook's House Truly a Crazy One

Famed Comedian Calls His New Jersey Home "Sleepless Hollow"

By CHARLES NORMAN
AP Feature Service Writer

LAKE HOPATCONG, N. J.—Joe Cook calls his house and estate here "Sleepless Hollow," and a good time is had by all.

Someone gave him an airplane propeller. (Someone is always giving him things.) He put it on the wall in the table tennis room; a spin of the propeller decides who wields the racket first. If, during the game, a pea, swiftly propelled, stings your ear, think no more about it—someone outside the house has just "let fly" through a pipe next to the propeller.

If the phone rings, don't offer to answer it; wait till you're called, to get a terrific stream of water in the eye. If you're the right sort, you join in the howls of laughter. Some distinguished guests have sat wrapped in a scowl a yard wide for fully 10 minutes before forgiving their host.

Down at Kelley's

The merriment really begins when Cook asks his guests to repair with him to Kelley's. That's the barroom downstairs. Perhaps there is no room in the world, outside a museum, where so many things have found a final resting place. A swift glance reveals a branding iron, a pair of bellows, a lasso, bottles, starfish, revolver, hair-shoes, bird cage, cuckoo clock, canes, old-time huggy lamps, violins, loving cups, hats, helmets, swords, snowshoes, suitcases, bow and arrow hand-cuffs and stuffed birds. In a prominent spot, on the mantle, is "the only baseball not autographed by Babe Ruth."

There is also a bar and tables, and a piano inscribed with the names of celebrities.

In Kelley's, Cook makes a little speech.

"Mention any object smaller than a man's hand," he says. "You'll find it on the ceiling."

You look up. The ceiling is a-flutter with hundreds, maybe thousands, of odds and ends dangling from hooks.

In Kelley's you get matches with this legend on the cover:

Cage Customers Croon

By NEA Service

Hoops, my dear!

In tune with the times, if nothing else, collegiate basketball crowds are now indulging in community singing.

Yes, of course, one of the places where the singing is being committed is at St. Mary's College in California, where fans and fanettes croon "The Bells of St. Mary's," "Can Francisco," and the "Star-Spangled Banner" between halves.

George Washington University in Washington, D. C., succumbed to the epidemic. It is alleged that the sports publicity man of Springfield College in Massachusetts is guilty of starting the practice.

A Cleveland promoter goes the rest of the boys one better, if you care to take such a tolerant attitude on the matter, by permitting the spectators to dance after games.

Of course, this is not exactly new in the sports world. Fighters have been waiting for years.

TCU Grid Coach Is Given Salary Hike

Leo Meyer Gets 3-Year Contract—Baugh Offered Freshman Post

FORT WORTH, Texas—(P)—Coach Leo Meyer of Texas Christian University was awarded a three-year contract at a substantial increase in salary Thursday.

Mike Brumblow was made varsity basketball coach in addition to his duties as football line coach.

Howard Grubbs was promoted from freshman coach to athletic director and varsity baseball coach.

Sam Adrian Baugh was offered the post as freshman coach of football, basketball and baseball.

These changes in the athletic department were announced by Dan R. Rogers, chairman of the athletic department of the board of trustees after a meeting of that body.

Braddock to Box for News Writers' Benefit

NEW YORK —(P)—Heavyweight Champion Jim Braddock will take on two opponents in two or three-round bouts each February 15 as the feature attraction of a boxing show for the benefit of the Catholic Writers' Guild in the Hippodrome.

Braddock, who has been idle since he won the title from Max Baer in June, 1935, has been matched with Eddie Klotz of Garfield, N. J. and Eddie Cook, a recent importation from Cuba.

One of the hazards is a honey. It's on a 40-foot tower. You go up a ladder and have to make your shot from the open side. He has grass growing on the top, too.

The house in "Sleepless Hollow" has 14 rooms. Only the sleeping and eating quarters are sane. One room is a miniature theater—the Old Grand Opera house—seating 11, including a royal box with one gilt chair. It has an asbestos curtain and a screen for sound films. Plays are written and acted by guests.

The house overlooks Lake Hopatcong, a stretch of placid water that holds the sky and the hills that surround it. It was built with money Joe made telling the world why he wouldn't imitate four Hawaiians.

Porker Team Off for Texas Battle

Razorbacks Must Take 2nd Game Series to Stay in Title Race

FAYETTEVILLE, Ark.—(P)—Coach Glen Rose led a 10-man University of Arkansas Razorback basketball squad out of Fayetteville late Thursday for Austin, Texas, where Friday and Saturday nights they engage University of Texas Longhorns.

It will be the first activity for the Razorbacks in two weeks.

To remain in the running for the Southwest Conference title, the Porkers must accomplish something they've never done before this season—win both games of a series in Austin.

Making the trip were Gilliland, Lockard, Hamilton, Brodie, Bobbie and Neal Martin, Tuck, Benton, Brady and Robbins.

The Longhorns, one of the conference pre-tournament favorites, started slowly but have been rounding into form under direction of their new coach, Jack Gray, former Longhorn football and basketball star.

Veteran Longhorns back for 1937 campaigning include Forward Roach, Baxter, Osborne, Center Collins, and Guard Clifton and White.

Arkansas took Texas twice last year at Fayetteville, 38-37 and 43-31. They defeated the Longhorns later in zone Olympic tournament competition.

"Yes" for Sales Tax

Without acting on 13 proposed amendments, the House Revenue and Taxation Committee marked "do pass" on the administration retail sales tax bill. Chairman I. N. Moore, Desha county, said the amendments will be argued in the House.

As amendment followed amendment, Representative J. Wesley Sampier of Benton county, asked that the sales tax be not undetermined with exemptions as was the Hall sales tax bill passed two years ago.

"The sales tax works a hardship on everyone paying it and if one exemption is justified, another is," he said. "I don't like it any better than you do, but everyone in Arkansas knows we must have a sales tax to produce needed revenue, so why defeat the purpose of the bill by tacking on amendments?" he asked.

One of the amendments would exempt under the new law of practically everything exempted under the expiring sales tax law. Another would provide that the act expire by limitation July 1, 1939.

The ransom kidnapping of Dr. J. C. B. Davis of Willow Springs, Mo., came to a tragic ending Wednesday when Robert Kenyon, 23-year-old Howell county farm hand led government and state officers to the physician's body in a thicket near Willow Springs, admitting he kidnapped and murdered his victim. Russia Second in Gold Production

Soviet's Output Greater Than That of U. S. and Canada Combined

By CHARLES F. NUTTER Associated Press Correspondent

MOSCOW.—(P)—Russia ranked second, behind South Africa, in gold production in 1932, despite her determination to increase the output fourfold between 1933 and 1936 and attain first place.

Estimates place the 1932 production between 300 and 350 tons; 1933's was set at 248 tons. Even the 1933 output was announced as greater than the combined production of Canada and the United States which for that year was 177 tons.

Actual production of gold in the Kremlin's most carefully guarded secret. The world knows neither how much gold is being produced or what is being done with it. The best guess is that it is going into storage against "the day" when it will be the Bolshevik's most valuable munition of war.

It stays in Russia. Little gold goes into foreign trade because Russia now has imports and exports nearly balanced and reserves to pay for purchases are no longer necessary.

The far east and north lead all other areas in Soviet gold production. This much is known although no foreigner is allowed within hundreds of miles of the great production centers there.

One recent "strike" there was reported "richer than Alaska." This field (a placer) lies in the frozen forests on the Okhotsk Sea.

It is held that provides the incentive for opening up the great Yakut Republic which, although the largest republic of the Soviet Union, has not yet felt the touch of steel rails.

Rivers from ice roads. Highways are being driven north now and rivers are being used the year around. In summer they carry great barges and boats, and in winter trucks roll swiftly down their smooth ice surfaces from production zones.

The Lena gold fields and the Ural river mines remain lucrative and great new strikes recently have been made in Kazakhstan, in Central Asia.

Foreign engineers who helped introduce modern methods have been nearly eliminated. Only three American engineers remain here and they are shifted rapidly from one project to another.

American manufacturers likewise have lost their market for gold mining machinery, once greatly in demand here. Using American equipment as models the Russians now are building their own equipment.

Utility Policy Is Co-operative One

Government Power to Work With Some Private Firms

By PRESTON GROVER Associated Press Correspondent

WASHINGTON.—Those administration underlings who think the proper position for a utility magnate is on his knees have been given a post-election jolt by the President. They had already had one jolt before the election.

In September he called a conference of power officials and later announced at a press conference that he thought some sort of grid system could be worked out in the Tennessee Valley area under which private power and TVA power could be harnessed together. Low-cost power would be the ultimate objective, but private investment would not be crushed by government competition.

After the election the more militant crowd predicted a reversal of trend. They expected TVA to follow liberal David Lilienthal, a director, in an invasion of southern cities with cheap government power in competition with private companies already operating.

Opposition to that came from Arthur E. Morgan, TVA chairman, who issued a statement urging renewed efforts at cooperation with private industry.

The Showdown. It seemed to call for a showdown by President Roosevelt as to what course he would take. Some of the aggressive government-ownership advocates, who thought Morgan's statement was his swan song, were left blinking when the President did not call at once for vigorous TVA expansion.

He appointed a committee headed by Secretary Oakes and told them to report within two weeks with a suggested power policy to apply to all government projects. The committee members, including Morris L. Cooke, rural electrification administrator, and Frank R. McNinch, chairman of the federal power commission, and two others, are on the deal-with-them-firmly side, but are not knee-benders.

Question About CARDUI PERIODICAL PAINS

"Why do so many women take Cardui for functional pains of menstruation?"

Each dose of Cardui contains a purely vegetable sedative and anti-spasmodic—that is, pain-relieving and cramp-relieving medicine that is especially effective at monthly periods.

This fact about Cardui (that it helps to relieve many of the ordinary functional pains of menstruation with a beneficial plant extract, not habit-forming, not objectionable to take) is greatly appreciated by thousands of women. They recommend it to others. Cardui is purely vegetable, liquid in form, and comes in 9-ounce bottles with full directions for use. Try it! Of course, if it does not benefit YOU, consult a physician.

BREAD IS NEARLY 100% DIGESTIBLE!!

CRISPY CRUMBS SCRAMBLED EGGS

1 cup soft bread-crumbs

3 strips bacon

2 tablespoons, butter

5 eggs

½ cup milk

1 teaspoon salt

few grains black pepper

Cut bacon into small pieces and heat in frying pan. As soon as bacon is heated through, add bread-crumbs; cook until bacon and crumbs are crisp and brown, stirring frequently. Beat eggs, add milk and seasonings. Remove bacon crumb mixture from frying pan and keep warm. Melt butter in pan, add beaten eggs and cook slowly, stirring egg up from bottom of pan as they cook. When eggs are nearly done, add crumb mixture, mix well and serve at once. Serves 6.

WHEN you eat Bread, you are eating a food that is nearly 100% digestible and nearly 100% assimilated . . . a food that is all edible, practically all utilizable for nourishment.

Famous scientists and nutrition experts recently completed a series of laboratory tests to find out the true facts about Bread. The fact that Bread is nearly 100% digestible was established beyond a doubt.

If you have been wondering about the digestibility of Bread, science now gives you the correct answer—"Bread is nearly 100% digestible!"
